

Hurst news –April 2007

The floods came up again and covered the footpath to Overy to a depth of over six inches. Fortunately, the level had gone down two days later, as we had a working party planned for 10 March to spread chippings on a muddy Hurst path and the public footpath right up to the end of Drayton Road. This was a monumental effort by volunteers, who even had to paddle through floods – overtopping wellies – to reach some of the chippings. They kept cheerful throughout and had a well-earned break. What would we do without them?

Peter Pritchard, hon secretary 340008

Captions (pics also sent separately)

Determined volunteer collecting chippings

Some of the volunteers taking a well-earned break